

Sixteen District Investigative Committees, composed of lawyers and members of the public and appointed by the Supreme Court, are an integral part of the Office of Lawyer Regulation's investigative program. The use of the committees ensures local input into the grievance process and provides both complainants and respondents with a convenient, economical means of peer review. Pursuant to Supreme Court Rules 21.06(2) and 21.03(6)(k), the Director OLR is responsible for supervision of the District Investigative Committees.
